

Efficient administration in the service of science

The administration of the Leibniz-HKI sees itself as a service provider with fast and uncomplicated communication channels that enable comprehensive and adequate support in all administrative matters.

As a team, we strive to work consistently in a service- and process-oriented manner since we understand this attitude as the key to high quality, efficiency and pace in our administrative processes.

The administration building of the Leibniz-HKI, Anna Schroll