

Assays

The search for innovative antibiotic substances requires throughput capable screening methods. We use target specific as well as whole cell based assays to find new starting points for antibiotics. In addition to standardized tests, we also carry out customized assays that we develop ourselves in the laboratory.

